EMPLOYEE ENGAGEMENT SURVEY REPORT:-

Introduction:-

This survey was conducted to understand employee satisfaction, engagement, communication, and overall workplace experience. A total of 5 participants responded to the survey.

Objective:-

The main objective of this survey was to evaluate:

1.Employee satisfaction level

2.Workplace motivation

3.Communication effectiveness

4.Learning and growth opportunities

5.Work-life balance

Key Findings:-

1.Work Satisfaction-> Most employees reported a good level of satisfaction with an average rating of 4/5, indicating a generally positive work environment.

2.Motivation-> Motivation levels were moderate. Some employees feel highly motivated, while others experience occasional lack of enthusiasm.

3.Communication-> Communication with managers was rated positively, showing that employees feel comfortable sharing their concerns.

4.Learning & Growth ->Employees feel they receive moderate opportunities for skill development, but there is room for improvement.

5.Work-Life Balance-> Responses showed mixed opinions. Some employees find workload manageable, while others feel occasional pressure.

6.Employee Value-> Most employees feel valued and appreciated at their workplace.

Suggestions from Respondents:-

1.Improve training and skill development programs

2.Maintain better workload balance

3.Increase interactive sessions between employees and management

Conclusion:-

Overall, the survey indicates a positive but improvable workplace environment. While satisfaction and communication are strong points, organizations should focus on improving learning opportunities and work-life balance for better engagement.
